FIRST MURDER TRIAL FOR YEARS

Mrs. Mary A. Burns Faces Jury in Superior Court Here Next Week

The first murder trial to be heard in this city for a great many years, will begin on Monday before Chief Justice T. G. Pike in superior court, when Mrs. Mary A. Burns of Nottingham will be charged with the murder of her husband, Frank Burns.

The case will take at least one, and possibly two weeks, and a special drawing of jurors has been held, so that there will be about sixty present here Monday when the case opens and out of this a jury of twelve men will be selected for the trial.

As in all murder cases the jury, once sworn in, will be kept under guard all of the time of the trial and arrangements have been made to board and lodge the jurors and the attending deputy sheriffs at the Kearsarge hotel annex. Under an amendment of the law, Chief Justice Pike will be the only judge, the old law requiring that two judges should hear all murder cases.

The state's case will be presented by Attorney General J. P. Tuttle of Manchester, County Solicitor Albert B. Hatch and Special Counsel Judge Ernest L. Capith, and Mrs. Burns will be defended by Page, Bartlett and Mitchell.

A brief summary of the case is as follows:

Frank Burns died at Nottingham, Dec. 12, 1914, between 4 and 5 a. m. A subsequent examination of his stomach showed he died of cyanide potassium. The county authorities immediately started an investigation which resulted in the arrest of Mrs. Burns, on the evidence that she had exhibited and had made statements indicating jealousy. That she, it is alleged, had purchased cyanide of potassium at a drug store in Manchester and had tried to purchase the poison in London. That the night before she is alleged to have purchased some liquor and that her husband drank this liquor, and it is alleged died from the effects of the poison mixed with the liquor.

Mrs. Burns was brought to the jail here, and later taken to Raymond and arraigned, charged with murder. She was held for the grand jury and brought back to the local jail and at the April term indicted for murder.

In July, by agreement, she was taken to the State hospital for the insane, at Concord and after being under observation for several weeks, was returned to the jail with the report of Dr. Bancroft that she was sane.

She has since been confined at the county jail here.

HIS FINANCIAL CONDITION

Senator Hollis Makes Statement In Divorce Case.

Concord, Nov. 12.—Senator Henry P. Hollis has filed his supplementary statement to his charges, pronises in his answer to the suit for legal separation and maintenance of his wife, with the clerk of the superior court. The action under the order of Judge Oliver W. Branch is returnable next Monday.

The senator's statement sets forth that he owns a farm of 175 acres in West Concord, valued at $3,000 a lot, on Park Ridge, valued at $1,600, and an undivided fifth part of the estate of his mother, thus comprising his ready holdings. The homestead on Park Ridge belongs to his father, Major Abijah Hollis.

He gives the value of his personal property as $35,738 which includes $15,000 insurance on which he declares he has borrowed the sum paid up valid. He had about $300 cash on hand when the statement was made out. His boy also his salary of $7,500 as U. S. Senator.

The income from his law practice since 1912 is given in the statement as $9,000 in 1913, $5,800 in 1914, and $4,750 in 1915. He declares that he has received no income from his law business since July 10 of this year. Of the $1,750 earned this year, the senator says that $750 should not be reckoned in that was his share of the current deposit on which the law firm did business.

Interest and fixed charges amounting to $1,800.29 reduces his income to $5,943.71, the senator states; and from this he gives each of his two children $1,200 a year which makes his net income $3,533.71.

In his answer filed shortly after the entry of his wife's suit, Senator Hollis declared that he would not contest the action of Mrs. Hollis for separate maintenance, and said he would file a statement of his finances with the court to guide the latter in fixing the amount which Mrs. Hollis should receive. So, unless General Frank S. Streeter, counsel for Mrs. Hollis, is disinclined to accept the senator's statement filed today the proceedings in court next week will be perfunctory.

General Streeter has begun oil the deposition by Alexander Millehile, the trustee appointed by Senator Hollis to pay over the allowances of his children, but this has never been completed, the answer of the senator sent on unexpectedly probably being the reason. If the General wishes to go more into details than the Senator, his gone in the paper filed today, he may continue the deposition of Millehile or call other witnesses. It will be inequitable on Mr. Hollis to prove that the statement is incorrect.

SYNOPSIS.

On the day of the eruption of Mount Pelee Capt. John Hardin of the steamer Princess rescues five-year-old Annette Illington and opens fire to keep her from leaving. Her father and a crewman, Illington, is assaulted by Hernandez and Ponto in a vain attempt to get papers which Illington has managed to save from the Princess with his daughter, Isabelle, now lost. Illington tells the whereabouts of the lost island of Chinabar. Illington's injury causes his mind to become a blank. Thirteen years ago, Hernandez, now an outfit mercantile, with Annette, has been told that Illington, come to Scarpot, where the widow of Captain Hardin is living with her son Neal and Annette Illington, and the papers left to Annette by her father are still in the possession of the Naval Academy, but through the treachery of Joey Welcher is defeated by Joey and disgraced. Neal enlists in the cruiser and gets a trap for Joey and the cruiser discovers that Neal plans to avenge himself. Inez reveals the location of the lost island. In the struggle for possession of the map, Hernandez, Annette and Neal each capture a sword. Annette sells on the Corazono in search of her son, but is captured once more by a man named Jackson, led by Neal. In Martinique, Neal is again captured, carried to the Sun City and offered as a sacrifice to the sun god. He is rescued by marines from the Albany. Illington is again exposed to yellow fever infection by Hernandez, but is rescued by sailors from the Albany.

CHAPTER XLV.

Stumbled through the undergrowth and advanced swiftly toward Hernandez.

"The epistle, Senor Capitan," he said. "It was the note from Inez Castro. Hernandez seized it eagerly and read:

"We are bound for La Plaza. Meet me there. Meantime I shall do my best to secure Annette's precious locket and the map. Your route lies across the country. Adios, I. C."

CHAPTER XLVI.

Inez Shows Her Hand.

"First and foremost, Miss Illington," said the captain of the Albany after Annette's party had boarded the cruiser, "now that you are once more safe, permit me to return to you the map of the Lost Isle, which I have examined with interest. Following your directions, I subjected it to heat, and brought out the hidden latitude and longitude—18 degrees 30 minutes north and 123 degrees 40 minutes west."

He paused a moment. "Do you know," he said, "there's something about that location that sticks in my mind—some vague rumor."

"The idea contains quicksilver minces," said Annette.

"It's not that," retorted the commander, "it was merely the locality. I traced it on our map. It was about there that the government—" He broke off, checking himself quickly.

"Ah, yes, I remember now," he said, "well, never mind. But, here also is your locket. Now you've got them, have you—all safe."

"Thanks for keeping them safe," said Annette, securing them in the bosom of her dress.

"So far, so good," went on the captain. "I have to say further that the officers' quarters have been placed at your disposal until we reach La Plaza. There you can get a train."

"It's a short ride on that road to Chantillo," went on the captain, "and at Chantillo you can catch the boat for most of the Lower California and California ports."

Across country Hernandez, Ponto and the Brute were traveling hard. The indomitable will of Hernandez kept them ever going on and on.

"You understand," cried he, "we must make La Plaza before the Albany gets there. We go cross-country—no one goes by shore. I'll knife you both if you fall me at this time."

Finally, on a moonlight night, Hernandez halted at a forest opening that looked down toward shore. He glanced across the sea.

"It is she—the Albany," he cried; "look, Ponto. She is at hand. It is a matter of hours now, one would say rather than days."

After a rest he reconnoitered. In the valley he saw a light or two. He forced his way through the foliage. Again they mounted and descended the hill into civilization. They knocked on the door of an adobe hut. A native opened and stumbled out, gun in hand,

"Take one swift look, my Ponto," he sneered, "only one."

Ponto took more than one—he held his eyes glued to the glasses. Then he fell back in amazement.

"They live!" he cried. "Both of them!"

He stared at Hernandez almost in affright. "What does it mean?" he repeated.

"It means," said Hernandez, grimly, "that I sent a boy to do a man's job. You were quite right. I should have gone myself."

Down on the wharf Annette Illington and her party were about to embark in one of the launches of the cruiser Albany that lay still anchored in the harbor. In Annette's party were Mademoiselle Irene Courtier, Mrs. Hardin, Neal's mother; Neal Hardin himself, a warrant officer upon the Albany, and the surgeon of the cruiser. There were one or two other men in uniform, an assistant surgeon possibly, and an ensign. There were bluejackets.

But above all, there were natives galore. Natives by the dozens, by the hundreds, and all in rags. The whole village had turned out to do homage.

"The little white angel," murmured grateful mothers, sinking down in Annette's path and kissing her dress as she went by.

Indeed by any of the party—save Joe Welcher, Inez swerved aside and slipped a note into the hands of a native, and handed him a coin.

Then she leaped lightly into the launch and the launch steamed away, followed by the cheers and the tears of the Tortugans on the wharf.

Back in the jungle, three men waited for advice. They had not long to wait. A treacherous looking native brought a bidding, whispered in his ear.

Joe, like a whipped dog, did, through fear of her, what he otherwise would have been afraid to do. He slipped into Neal's quarters, and laid his hands upon an object or two, twisted them into a little bundle and took them back to Inez. Inez took them to her cabin.

Over at La Plaza—La Plaza by the sea—Hernandez sought the shore and found what he wanted—it was a fishing boat with a kick in it—the only motorboat in the place. It was well manned, with a crew of six of the most disreputable-looking characters that ever drew the breath of life. Hernandez talked to them—with money. "No lights," he cautioned, "and thunks that kick in." And be quick about it now."

"It is all right, señor," said the man at the tiller; "we are about all hours of the night. No one thinks of us, one way or the other." He pointed out to sea. "You percovo," he said, "there are other fisher boats."

"Good," said Hernandez, "the more the merrier."

Without lights they kicked to within almost hailing distance of the Albany. Then Hernandez showed a light. It was immediately answered from the deck. "It is good," he said, "we understand each other."

Inez hastened from the deck and entered her cabin.

GOLD MEDAL GIVEN REV. DR. THAYER

North Church Parish Presented Gift to Pastor at Reception Last Evening In Recognition of His Twenty-Fifth Anniversary

A large number of members of the North Church congregation gathered last evening at the Parish House on Middle street, to pay tribute to Dr. and Mrs. Lucius H. Thayer, in recognition of the 25th anniversary of Dr. Thayer's pastorate at the North Congregational church. The large chapel was crowded by the friends of the clergymen and pastors from several of the other local churches were also present to pay their respects.

A solid gold medal was presented to Dr. Thayer, the presentation speech being made by Walter H. James. The medal was designed by one of the young ladies of the parish, a member of the church who came up from the Sunday School under Dr. Thayer's pastorate. It has a reproduction of the church on the obverse side, and on the reverse the following inscription is engraved:

Presented to Lucius Thayer, D. D.
By the Members

of the North Church and Parish on the Twenty-fifth Anniversary of the
Beginning of his Pastorate
November
Nineteen Hundred and Fifteen

The work on the medal was done by a member of the church as was also the engraving. It is enclosed in a leather case so designed as to show both sides and the cover is stamped in gold with Dr. Thayer's name.

Dr. and Mrs. Thayer were assisted in receiving by John S. Rand and Mrs. D. P. Kimball, the reception lasting for an hour.

Following the reception and a musical program, Col. A. P. Howard called the meeting to order and introduced as the first speaker, Daniel F. Borthwick, President of the North Church Corporation. Mr. Borthwick paid a high tribute to Dr. and Mrs. Thayer, speaking at length of the long and faithful services to the church and giving a brief history of the parish from its foundation, mentioning that Dr. Thayer's 25th anniversary made the fourth time in the history of the church that a pastorate had extended over a quarter of a century.

Mr. Borthwick said that Rev. Joshua Moody began his pastorate in 1871 and continued for twenty-six years. Rev. Samuel Langdon was ordained as the fourth pastor of the church in February 1877, and continued with the church until his election as president of Harvard University in 1874, after a pastorate of twenty-seven years. Rev. Joseph Buckminster was ordained pastor of the church in January, 1879 and remained with the parish until his death, thirty-two years later on June 10, 1912.

In speaking of the respect and honor in which Dr. Thayer is held by the members of the parish, Mr. Borthwick said in part:

I have been asked to bring you greetings of a pastorate beginning in 1890 that of our beloved pastor, Lucius Harrison Thayer.

It is said that time should be measured by deeds not years; the present pastorate is one that we may well measure by this standard.

In the course of time, there is Change and Change and smiles. These words arrested my attention as I read them recently. Opportunity, renewal and happiness and in recalling the twenty-five years of this pastorate tonight, it is of these things that I shall speak.

Twenty-five years of chance, twenty-five years of opportunity.

The door of opportunity has not been closed to this church during the past quarter of a century. Of the opportunity through its material equipment Mr. Batchelder our treasurer will speak. A real opportunity has come to the North Church through confidence in the pastor, by his own people, citizens of our city and state and those engaged in the wider field of Christian service. Opportunity has brought responsibility, and pastor and people have been willing to assume it.

The members of this church and parish with their guests consider it a great privilege tonight by this gathering to honor Dr. and Mrs. Thayer for their devotion to the work of the North Church.

Rev. Alfred Gooding, pastor of the Unitarian Church, was introduced, as representing the local churches. Mr. Gooding also paid a high tribute to Dr. Thayer, who he held in high esteem as a friend of his, of the city and of mankind. Mr. Gooding mentioned the respect in which Dr. Thayer was held by all, this earned by the work and service which he is continually performing.

Other addresses were made by Rev. S. H. Dana D. D., of Exeter, scribe of the Pisgatcha Congregational Association; Rev. Edward R. Stearns, Secretary of the Congregational State Conference; Rev. Howard A. Bridgeman, Editor of "The Congregationalist" and John C. Batchelder, treasurer of the North Church Parish.

During the evening a musical program was presented by an orchestra and vocal selections were rendered by Miss Susan Borthwick, with a violin obligato played by Miss Helen McIntire, accompanied at the piano by Miss Marion Melville.

Miss Borthwick and the Misses McIntire, by the finished execution of their difficult selections, added materially to the pleasure and enjoyment of the guests, and their efforts were received with hearty applause to which they responded with encores.

Mr. Bridgeman, who was a member of Dr. Thayer's class at Amherst college spoke highly of him, mentioning many intimate little incidents of his college career.

In Mr. Batchelder's talk he stated that the financial condition of the church was never better than it is at the present time. He said that the parish was not only free from debt but that there was sufficient funds now in the treasury to carry on the work until the end of the fiscal year, which comes in March.

Refreshments of salads, ices, cakes, fruit punch and others, were served the guests by the ladies of the parish.

GENERAL BAUDEAU, COMMANDER OF FRENCH IN SERVIA

While the Teuton forces reported an unbroken series of successes against the Servians in the north of the invaded country of the latter, the Bulgarian allies of the Germans and Austrians were less successful in opposing the northward advance of the French and British from Saloniki. The map shows a narrow tongue of Bulgarian land thrust between Servia and Greece. In this lies Strumitsa, and near Strumitsa there has been hot fighting. General Baudeau, commander of the French soldiers operating north of Saloniki, is seen here chatting with members of his staff.

MEDALS FOR MARKSMEN

NAVY RIFLEMEN TO WEAR INSIGNIA ON SLEEVES

Washington, Nov. 12.—A number of gold medals to be awarded to qualified expert team riflemen of the navy have reached the Navy Department from the Philadelphia mint. It was announced today, the statement including the names of fourteen officers and men entitled to the decoration.

Under regulations, men entitled to the medals must qualify two separate years as expert riflemen and be members of three winning ship's rifle teams.

Beginning next year navy expert riflemen and marksmen will wear insignia on their sleeves instead of medals, the gold expert team riflemen decoration being the only one of the kind issued. Competition requirements have been raised, it is stated, insuring that the medals will be greatly prized and held by few men.

YORK MAN HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Rides Into Open Bridge on Motorcycle

Leon Blasdel had a rather narrow escape from serious accident Wednesday on the railroad bridge, near the Norton Inn. Workmen had ripped up about ten feet of the planking on the York Harbor side of the bridge, and had placed barriers at either end of the bridge about 60 or 60 feet distant from the ledge proper. Blasdel was going towards the harbor on his motorcycle, at a good rate of speed, and claimed he did not see the barrier, which was a plank, one end resting on the fence that extends from the bridge, and the other end resting on the ground leaving a small space between the end of the plank and the rails of the Atlantic Shore railway. Through this space Blasdel rode his machine and onto the bridge. The workmen shouted for him to stop and waved their arms but it was too late to bring the machine to a stop. Ahead of him the bridge had been ripped up, and there was a slanting drop to the car tracks below. Blasdel realized his danger and he jumped or threw himself from the machine, the motorcycle plunging into the railing, and the rider landing on his back on the flooring. The machine lost a pedal and the rider received a bad bruise on one knee.

NOTE WILL NOT CHANGE BRITAIN

GRIP ON GERMANY WILL NOT BE RELAXED IS OPINION OF ENGLISH NEWSPAPERS

London, Nov. 12.—"The American note causes us little concern as Englandmen," says the Spectator, commenting on the recent note of the United States to Great Britain, relative to interference with American trade. "Its harsh and unsympathetic tone will not make us relax in the slightest degree the grip on the throat of Germany, which our sea power gives us. We shall answer the note politely and in a much more human spirit than that which inspires its words, but we shall answer it firmly. That we must do whatever the consequences, but there will be no consequences."

The Spectator believes the majority of Americans would not tolerate seeing Great Britain stabbed in the back. It does not believe that Wilson will mix the problems of munitions and contraband, and it refuses to regard America as a purely foreign country. The weekly continues:

DR. JORDAN MAY BE INDIRECT PEACE ENVOY

Asks President Wilson if United States Will Aid in Overtures to Nations at War.

Washington, Nov. 12.—With this government unite, if called upon, with other neutral countries in the establishment of a peace commission to bring about the end of the big European conflict on a basis of "international justice"? This question was laid before President Wilson today by David Starr Jordan, president of Leland Stanford University and head of the International Peace Congress.

On Dec. 14, Dr. Jordan said, there will be an informal meeting of peace advocates from neutral countries at Berne, Switzerland, at which time preliminary work toward accomplishing the end desired by the International peace congress will be started.

Berne, Switzerland, Nov. 12.—The committee which is meeting here to organize a congress to study and determine bases of durable peace, announces that it is receiving considerable support from neutral countries, especially the United States. The congress will meet Dec. 1, it is stated that expressions of interest have been received from former President Taft, President Lovell of Harvard, Prof. William L. Bull of Swarthmore, Pa., and John Barrett. It is said subscriptions totalling $1000 have been received from the United States to help defray the expenses.

Dr. Jordan added that if the committee is formed, he would have it meet at The Hague, Copenhagen or Berlin about Christmas time.

"That would be both a fitting and effective time for such a conference," he said.

Dr. Jordan added that if the committee fails to goods only and does not cover human beings it ventures to suggest that Washington at least repeat the Luisitania warning.

Note's Face Sûre, Berlin

Berlin, Nov. 12.—What is said to be an inspired despatch from Berlin to the Cologne Gazette on the American note to Great Britain says:

"The energy with which the President, after the settlement of the controversy with Germany, has taken up the settlement of the Anglo-German question is acknowledged unrestrainedly here. There could be no more convincing documentary proof of the importance of American interests and the extent of the British violations of rights than this note."

The Spectator says the British have not torpedomed American ships, nor have they killed American citizens. The British embassy has not been the centre of plots and conspiracies, yet when the tone of the notes to Great Britain and Germany is considered it is much less friendly toward Great Britain.

Referring to the sinking of the liner's steamer Ancon, the Spectator says that unless the champion which the executive has assumed re-

The State's Responsibility.

Following every catastrophe resulting in the loss of life there is an investigation by the legal authorities—and sometimes several investigations—for the purpose of placing the responsibility. This is eminently proper. Where there is responsibility for the loss of life it should be fixed and the persons responsible should be held to account for their shortcomings.

After the burning of a factory in Brooklyn, N. Y., last Saturday, which resulted in the loss of thirteen lives, there were begun four separate investigations, and it did not take long to ascertain that a part of the responsibility, at least, rested upon the authorities themselves. It was shown that there had been inspection which would have prevented the tragedy if the laws and the orders of the inspectors had been obeyed. They were not, and it is now proper to ask who was to blame.

Orders had been given for changes in the factory, but they were not carried out. Now two inspectors have been suspended, one for failing to report to the state authorities that orders were not complied with by the owner of the building, and the other for not reporting the owner's delay in carrying out the order.

The suspension of these inspectors is all well enough so far as it goes, but the conditions make it clear that there must be greater thoroughness in the enforcement of the laws if there is to be that protection which the laws are designed to insure. In this case it is difficult to escape the conviction that public officials were more to blame than any one else for the awful happening. It was their business to know the conditions in the building and to enforce such changes as were necessary to make it safe. According to the evidence, they knew the conditions, but failed to bring about the necessary changes, though having full power to do so.

Owners of buildings have selfish interests, and there are those who will dodge their responsibilities so far as possible. But the state has supreme power. It can enact laws and appoint officers to enforce them, and for this reason it cannot entirely escape responsibility when there is a happening of this kind. Violators of the laws should be punished, but the state, with full power in its hands, should be very careful to see that they are brought to book before instead of after the damage has been done.

A headline tells us that turkeys will be higher this year, that cranberries are scarce and that potatoes and other vegetables will advance in price as the season continues. But to those familiar with the conditions usually attending the good old Puritan anniversary known as Thanksgiving this is not news.

The deer hunting season has opened in some places and one hunter has already been shot dead by his companion in the Adirondacks. It sometimes seems as if every man should be compelled to take something like a civil service examination before being allowed to go into the woods with a gun.

In addition to the increasing number of automobile casualties there seems to be a growing tendency on the part of drivers to rush on without stopping to learn what damage has been done. The penalty for this should be very severe, and in enforcing it the courts should be as rigid as a crowbar.

There is no excitement over the hyphen across the water. There they have Serbo-Anglo-French forces, Anglo-French reinforcements, the Austro-German campaign, the Bulgar-Serb frontier and Austro-Hungarian troops, with other combinations too numerous to mention.

It may be a long way to Tipperary, but it doesn't look now as if it were a very long way to monarchy in China, whose "republic" might well ask the old question: "If I am so soon to be done for, I wonder what I was begun for?"

That "well" parade in Chicago was a whopper. It was, of course, all in the interest of "home rule," but what element outside of those massive ranks would want to be governed by the elements of which the line was composed?

Germany has abolished the age limit for military service and every man able to shoulder a gun is now eligible to the ranks. This shows that conditions are pinching and that the people are ready to meet the pinch.

President Wilson should remember that when he quotes Scripture to emphasize the propriety of preparedness he has recourse to an authority by which almost any contention in the world can be justified.

Ex-Governor Foss of Massachusetts displays a streak of good sense at times, and he did this when he settled the libel suit recently brought against him and stopped the noise.

CURRENT OPINION

Commercial War Should Be Made With Commerce, Not With Human Lives.

I represent no faction, and I hold no brief for the government. I have come to speak for the people of China. I have come to say: You, the people of the United States, you know that we do not live by fighting. You know that modern war is a war of commerce, not of killing. Fighting never solves any problems. It destroys life and breeds hate, and the problems remain unsolved, for, after all, no matter how much we may kill, the market will go to the best producer in the end.

Japan says to us that we must join her to make war upon the white race. When they made that proposition to me I told them that the time was past when foreigners could be kept on the other side of the Caucasus. The white race is here on earth to stay. Why waste our energy in fighting them? Why not learn to get along? They have made mistakes, and so have we. The process of evolution is going on in both of us. Why not be tolerant and try to understand how it is going on in them? Individuals learn to live without violence. There is no more dueling among individuals. Why should there be fighting between nations?

And when you have heard all this I want to say to the United States: You, too, are a peaceful people.

Will you help China to make war in the peaceful oriental way, to make a war of commerce by making war with commerce and not with human lives? By Dr. Yamé Kin, First Chinese Woman Physician.

Professor Barrett Wendell of Pleasant street, this city of the Department of English and Comparative Literature at Harvard, is confined to his home suffering from injuries sustained in an automobile collision. The professor was on his way out to college Thursday morning from his winter home in Boston when his car encountered another automobile coming out of a side street near Central Square, Cambridge. In trying to avoid a collision, the chauffeur ran into lamp post, throwing Professor Wendell through the windshield. The professor while suffering with cuts about the head and a general shaking up, will be able to resume his classes in a few days.

MANCHESTER PLEASED.

Predicts a Big Growth of This City With New Plant.

The Manchester Union editorially has the following to say about the new munition plant, under the caption "Bully for Portsmouth."

Portsmouth in particular, and New Hampshire in general, are to be congratulated on the consummation of the deal whereby the big paper mill at Freeman's Point is to be opened full blast for manufacturing purposes. Nor, apparently, is the title to congratulations based on any merely temporary lease of the plant, to continue in operation only for the manufacture of munitions while the war in Europe is in progress, and then to become idle again. The plan, as announced, is ultimately to develop the concern into a large ordnance and shipbuilding enterprise. This announcement coupled with the assurance that the company, which is in reality a merger of several large manufacturing concerns of the United States and Canada, will be incorporated with an initial capitalization of $25,000,000, half common and half 7 per cent cumulative preferred, conveys a rather definite suggestion of permanency.

The plant at Freeman's Point is immense, and comparatively new. It is only a few years, relatively speaking, since New Hampshire and northern New England generally were thrilled by details of a gigantic engineering plan by which Freeman's Point was to become the site of a big paper mill. The erection of the mill itself, interesting as it was, was secondary in interest to the preparation of the ground on which it was to stand. It is no exaggeration to say that few engineering and building enterprises in New England have been watched with more keen or more general interest than was this. The work was carried to completion, and it is this same mill that will house the $25,000,000 concern to be known as the Phillips Corporation. This enterprise should be a source of great help to Portsmouth in more ways than one. First off, it may be expected to furnish employment for many hands, and incidentally to boost the city's census figures. It should have a broader effect than that, however. It should help materially to restore Portsmouth to her old-time prestige as a shipping port. If this company's shipbuilding plans materialize, this result can hardly fail to be achieved. Meanwhile, it is reasonable to suppose that many of the products of such a plant as this can be shipped more conveniently by water than by land. Particularly is this true when, as at Portsmouth, the plant is situated at the very edge of one of the finest harbors on the North Atlantic coast. But whether any of the munitions are shipped directly from Portsmouth or not, the taking over of the big mill augurs well for the immediate future, and the shipbuilding project for the only more remote future, of New Hampshire's only seaport city.

IN MEMORIAM.

It has been my privilege to spend many summers in intimate association with the late Capt. Charles W. Friesche. As one of the many visitors who seek the delightful shores of Kittery Point, I took up my abode in his house summer after summer. The pleasure of his company was always a potent factor in luring me back to my accustomed haunts—in fact, I counted it as one of the principal assets of my vacation. To know a man you must live in the house with him. The longer I lived with him the more agreeable did my residence with him become, and this feeling pervaded my whole family. He had our greatest respect and admiration, which grew from year to year. No more courteous gentleman ever lived, no kindlier heart ever beat in human bosom, no gentler, lovelier nature ever trod this earth. Right and honorable in all his dealings with his fellow-man, a staunch and loyal friend, a loving and devoted father, he gave the world the best that was in him and strove to give it more. The many courtesies and kindnesses he showered on us for many years will always form a bright spot in the memory of us all.

The sea was his mistress. He was ever ready at her beck and call. Even though in later years the infirmities of age had begun to creep upon him and the ill that all flesh is heir to had impaired his strength and caused him suffering, he never refused her service. As he spent his life on the ocean's bosom, so he died "locked in the cradle of the deep." And in his last days, as he looked back over "the short and simple annals" of a noble and useful life crowned with all the virtues of a pure heart and a lofty nature, well might he have said, gazing out from over the troubled waters of life's long voyage to the sun-set of the mighty, deep that was to bear him to the great home port for which he was making:

"Twilight and evening star
And one clear call for me;
There'll be no moaning of the bar
When I put out to sea."

HINDS' OLD GUARD WANTS GOODALL

Sanford Man Urged to Become Candidate Against Horace Mitchell for Congress.

The following article, taken from a recent issue of the Portland Argus will no doubt be of much interest to the citizens of York county and supporters of Mr. Horace Mitchell:

"The workings of the inner wheels of the self-constituted Republican machine which has been set a going with a view of turning out a congressional candidate are interesting to watch, and the latest development is the effort being made to sidetrack the present avowed candidates, notably the one in particular from York county, and to introduce a new Richmonian in the person of Louis B. Goodall of Sanford.

"To this end a conference of leading Republicans such as Dr. Alfred King and Hon. Woodbury K. Dana of Cumberland county, Fred Allen of York county and others of the 'old Hinds guard,' has been held and the plan adopted is the circulation of petitions in the two counties urging the candidacy of Mr. Goodall. As a concrete illustration of the methods employed, the following are copies of letters with enclosed petition which have been sent to representative Republicans in Cumberland county, and a like policy is now in vogue in York county.

This is Dr. King's letter:

Portland, Me., October 22, 1915.

To ——————

For many years it has been customary for the Republican representative to congress of the First District of Maine to come alternately from its two counties, Cumberland and York. When Mr. Allen retired the nomination came without question to Cumberland. Now that Mr. Hinds is to retire it seems only fair that our next candidate for representative should come from York. To put in a Cumberland county man would be strongly resented in York and deprive him of that hearty support of friends which is necessary to his election. With the alternating of representative candidates there is also this general feeling that whoever is offered for nomination should be the strongest man the county can offer, who will not only command the respect and esteem of the men of both counties but will carry with him the feeling that those who bring him forward are doing the best they can and are bent on winning.

The effort to induce Mr. Goodall to be candidate is along these lines. I believe it is good politics for the citizens of Cumberland to show their approval of such efforts and express themselves. I believe that you are of the same opinion and will be willing to secure some signatures to the enclosed petition to show Mr. Goodall that throughout the entire district there is a strong desire that he be our next candidate for representative to congress.

Helping for your hearty co-operation.

In this matter, I am

Very sincerely

Alfred King.

This is the accompanying circular letter:

Louis B. Goodall, Sanford, Me.

Dear Sir:

The undersigned voters of Cumberland county and the First District of Maine, understanding that a widespread movement is being made by the citizens of York county to secure your consent to be a candidate for Representative to Congress for this district, wish to express to you our hearty approval of their choice and join them in their effort. We have the firm belief that as a successful public-spirited business man, bound by the instincts of a broad-minded American gentleman and by the desire to do what is best for our district, state and country, you embody those qualities which appeal to the citizens of our entire district and will make a candidate who will have the respect and esteem of all and on whom we can unite without disengagement to any other candidate.

We therefore would respectfully urge you to consent to become a candidate for the Republican nomination for representative to congress of this district at the next primary.

Against all this, a prominent Republican of York county, on being questioned by an Argus man had these classic comments to make:

"Whatever efforts are being made in opposition to the present avowed candidates for the Republican congressional nomination, notably so in the case of Hon. Horace Mitchell, are purely personal, and so understood by the large Republican contingent in the county. York county is a very large majority and in many towns unanimous is now lined up for Mr. Mitchell."

"The people of York county recognize the right, under the primary law, of any man to enter the race, and do not resent the presentation of their claims as such, but what they do take exception to is the fact that certain Cumberland county Republicans, with others are endeavoring to force upon the people of York county a candidate who is a resident of the state of Maine but two months in the year. Mr. Goodall resides in Brookline, Mass., where he owns property and only comes to Maine to look after cooperative interests. He has never held a position of public trust except on Governor Hoadley's staff.

"The petition for the nomination of Mr. Goodall, which are being circulated in York county but not signed to any appreciable extent by the way, emanated from a man who has been in the political dry dock in York county for many years and who could not obtain any support under the strict primary system but is now urging Mr. Goodall to become a candidate for the express purpose of defeating Mr. Mitchell.

"Fred Allen has been particularly sore on the public utilities commission, and while Governor Bates would not for a minute listen to such a proposal, Mr. Allen seems to regard its failure as the result of lukewarm support accorded him by certain Republicans in York county, and is now trying to wreak vengeance on a few in particular.

"The general feeling in York county is favorable to the nomination of one of their own. The towns especially in the southwest sections are enthusiastic and unanimous in asking for the nomination. The last congressman from York county was Hon. Amos L. Allen of Alfred to whom the Republicans of this section gave their cordial and individual support. Mr. Hinds succeeded Mr. Allen and Kittery alone gave him his entire majority in two elections, at least.

"The two counties have alternated for years in the nomination of a Republican representative in Congress. Mr. Reed held the position for 26 years then it went to York county. Mr. Allen was 12 years in Congress and Cumberland county, had Mr. Hinds for six years when ill health forced his retirement. And in this connection it might be observed that Mr. Goodall is by no means a physical athlete. So far as geographical claims are concerned, argument on this phase of the question is unequalled for because the fact is conceded by the Republican workers in both of the counties."

STRIKES BEING SETTLED.

Boston & Albany Freight Handlers Back.

Boston, Nov. 12.—The first break in the three weeks' strike of railroad freight handlers came tonight with the announcement that the Boston & Albany road and its 500 employees had reached an agreement. Some of the men are to return to work tomorrow, notwithstanding a vote by the men of the three roads involved in the strike that any settlement should be a general one.

So far as could be learned tonight no agreement was in immediate prospect between the Boston & Maine and the New York, New Haven and Hartford roads and their 1,000 former employees. Mayor Curley, however, expressed belief, that the settlement would be completed within a week.

Neither the Boston & Albany officials or the union would say what was their decision. The men on the Boston & Maine originally struck for increased pay, reduced working hours and compensation for holidays. The freight handlers on the other two roads joined them in sympathy and subsequently made similar demands.

A federal conciliator, James H. Smyth, sought unsuccessfully to bring the parties together.

Hon. J. C. Stotes Says Experiment in Road Building With Jail Prisoners Has Proven Successful.

Portland, Me., Nov. 12—Hon. John C. Stotes of Westbrook, a member of Governor Curtis' council in an address today at the noon luncheon of the Portland Rotary Club, favored the employment of prisoners on road making and said that the experiment tried here by sheriff W. M. Pennell, by the authority of the county commissioners proved a success.

He said that during the summer the county had about forty men at work on the highways on an average and between 135 and 150 men were at the camps for a longer or a shorter time. He believed that the same system might advantageously be tried in every county in the state, and even extended to the state prison.

RECEIVED 11,000 VOLTS.

New Haven, Nov. 12—Despite the fact that 11,000 volts of electricity passed through his body while he was cleaning insulators near the Cedar street bridge this morning, physicians at the New Haven hospital believe Peter Moran, aged 28, of 33 Truman street, a section hand in the employ of the New Haven road, will recover.

Moran suffered burns on his right arm and on the soles of his feet. According to those who witnessed the accident, he touched a wire leading from the main high tension cable. There was a blinding flash and he toppled over. Moran was not unconscious and unless the shock to his system proves more serious than is believed, he will recover. He is said to be the first man who has escaped death by coming in contact with one of these big feed wires.

DENIES BRITISH CLAIMS

Captain of Steamer Zealandia Was in Mexican Waters When Searched.

(Special to The Herald)
New York, Nov. 13.—A dispatch from the captain of the American steamer Zealandia, said to have been searched in side of Mexican waters by a guard from a British war ship, was received and published in a New York newspaper here today. It flatly contradicts the statement of the British government, that the Zealandia was outside of the Mexican three mile limit and that the steamer was searched on the high sea. This, if true, will probably lead to vigorous protest from Mexico as well as the United States.

LAUDER WELCOMED.

Greeted on Landing in New York by Scotch Friends.

New York, Nov. 12.—Rarely did an alert Scottish chiefman receive a tribute so flattering, as did Harry Lauder yesterday at the American Line pier when the St. Louis arrived. To the pipers' rousing strains, the Scottish comedian with Mrs. Lauder on his arm came down the gangplank and beat killed and beatified Highlanders received him with solemnity. Then many lively airs reminiscent of the hardy land of mountain and flood were played by the pipers as Mr. and Mrs. Lauder took their seats in a big automobile—a tartan colored touring car.

Mr. Lauder stood in the tonneau and waved his Balmoral hat to the passengers and other well-wishers who applauded him. He was impressed and so was Mrs. Lauder. Then his cheery countenance seemed to lose its sunny smile for a few moments. He turned and said something to his wife at the same time patting her shoulder affectionately.

What he said was "If Johnnie's all right then everything's all right. Tinseal or a nummery throughout the ages have hidden hearts that ache with anxiety. 'Johnnie' is Captain John Lauder of the Argyle and Sutherland Highlanders, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Lauder. He is in England recovering from wounds received on the firing line and an attack of pneumonia.

As the ship news reporters clambered on board the St. Louis when she was shaping her course up the Narrows, Mr. Lauder sauntered on to the deck puffing at one of his collection of pipe-smoking pipes. "Hoot!" said one of the reporters with a wave of greeting.

"Hoot awa' versel!" replied the comedian through a cloud of smoke.

"Glad to see you back," said the reporter shaking hands with him cordially.

"I'm vera glad, indeed, to be back; vera," said Mr. Lauder. "While I'm here, ye see I can smile. I've come here to try to make the American people laugh. I've been a wee bit successful before in that respect, and I'm thinkin' they'll laugh a bit more." The old smile disappeared then.

"Ye know boys I haven't had the heart to smile myself for many a day. That's, smile because I felt like it. There's naething but sorrow in my headland. It's beyond description. I'm too old to fight, but my son is doing his share for Great Britain, and I've tried to do my little bit on the home shores away from the flying bullets." He told of his recruiting campaign with his pipe band through the British provinces.

Mr. Lauder then related facts concerning Mrs. Lauder's activities in behalf of the soldiers who have been wounded from the front. "My son was severely wounded and is now convalescing from an attack of pneumonia," he said. "The pneumonia almost completed the work of the German bullet that got him."

The COLONIAL THEATRE

SAFETY AND QUALITY FIRST

Here is a show that we think is the best ever. The acts are so well known in the vaudeville world that they hardly need any introduction.

It does not take a great amount of space to tell about the offerings at the Colonial. They speak for themselves. The thousands of patrons do the advertising.

This is the program for today. Quality first, remember. There is something on this bill that will just capture every woman and child in Portsmouth. Look it over.

NEW YORK'S LATEST AND GREATEST SENSATION

ALLIES STRIKING HARD AT VELES

Anglo-French Troops Inflicting Great Losses on Retreating Bulgars—Capture of City Now a Matter of Hours.

London, Nov. 12.—The fall of Veles, in Southern Serbia, is imminent after a severe defeat inflicted upon the Bulgarians by the Anglo-French troops and there is a distinct possibility that the Allies may succeed in gaining a part of the Nish railway as far asiskup; all accounts received of the recent fighting in the neighborhood of Veles state that the Bulgarians are in full retreat after enormous loss and that the freshly arriving Allied troops are expected to push the advantage already attained to a successful conclusion. In this case the Bulgarians probably would have to abandon the Uskup-Kutayova line, and the whole southern portion of the railroad would revert to Entente Allied hands. Field Marshal von Mackensen is pressing the pursuit of the Serbians in the mountain districts of Central Serbia. Already the Serbians have been driven from the first of the ridges south of Kraljevo, according to today's official report from Berlin, while south of Krusevac and elsewhere along the winding line General Putnik's troops, stubbornly fighting, have been pushed farther back into their hilly defensive positions. The distance of the Entente Allies' naval base from the scene of the hostilities in Serbia and the necessity for guarding the long line of communications in a difficult country and in the face of a hostile population are regarded by the military correspondents as rendering a northward march from Salonta unavoidable. The concentration of forces farther east is held to be imposed by military conditions.

Russians in Roumania

London, Nov. 12.—A despatch to the Daily Express from Geneva says a message received there from Bucharest states that the Russians have advanced the Danube river and landed a small force of men and guns near Siblitsa.

Siblitsa is on the southern bank of the Danube in Roumanian territory some thirty miles east of where the river reaches Bulgarian soil.

Russia Can Do This Work

London, Nov. 12.—The Times' Balkan correspondent telegraphing from Bucharest, expressed the opinion that if Russia could send into the Serbian campaign a force of 200,000 men while the French and British troops are landing on the Aegean coast, the hesitation which prevails in certain quarters in Roumania would be dissipated, and both Roumania and Greece would throw in their lots with the Entente Allies. "In this event," says the correspondent, "Roumania could fall on Bulgaria in the rear with 200,000 men and simultaneously attack the German front with 100,000 men. Roumania feels safe in the Carpathian passes, which she regards as impregnable. The scene of action in such a case would probably be Eastern Bulgaria or Thrace, where Field Marshall von der Goltz's army is assembled, but lacks munitions."

Shell Inferno at Loos

Paris, Nov. 12.—A spirited bombardment has continued in the section of Loos, both sides taking part, according to announcement made by the French Office this afternoon. In the Artois War district French artillery has silenced certain German batteries.

The text follows:

"There was an active bombardment yesterday in which both sides took part. In the sections of Loos and of the Fosse Calonne. In the region of Bus, in the Artois district, our artillery reduced to silence certain enemy batteries which were firing on our troops.

"Along the remainder of the front the fighting will indeed be continued with success.

"In the Argonne district, at Hill No.

225, we delivered a counter attack by means of a small mine against certain works, where the Germans were showing much activity. To the north of Hillay the explosive, not another such mine was successful in wrecking certain galleries pushed forward by the enemy and preventing the continuance of this work."

Italians Gain on Carso

Rome, via Paris, Nov. 12.—Further advance for the Italians on the Carso front, where several important trenches in the vicinity of San Martino del Carso were stormed, are reported in the official statement by Italian army headquarters issued today. The statement is as follows:

"On November 11, in the upper Campelle valley (Masi, Valsugana, Torrette), the enemy attacked our position in San Giovanni Pass. Although supported by the fire of many guns posted on a summit Cupola and on Mount Alon, the attack was repulsed.

"In the Gordevio valley our enemy pressure on Courina continues between Monte Stef and Monte Settias.

Small operations also were undertaken with the object of destroying enemy detachments which had remained behind Col di Lava.

"On the middle Isonzo, in the Plava section, our infantry began yesterda-yesterday, resolutely to advance into the Seagora region. They took 200 prisoners, of whom three were officers. On the heights of Gorizia we made some little progress and captured eighteen prisoners.

"On the Carso, during the whole day of yesterday, rain paralyzed artillery action and numerous ravines were transformed into torrents, hampering

the advance of our infantry. Nevertheless, thanks to their elan and tenacity, our troops succeeded in storming several large and important trenches of San Martino del Carso, taking thirty odd prisoners."

Three Belgian Spies Die

London, Nov. 12.—The execution of three Belgians found guilty by a German court martial of communicating news of troop movements to the Allies is announced by the Amsterdam Echo Belge, which says a fourth Belgian was sentenced to twelve years' imprisonment.

The Berlin Koehnrich Volks Zeitung

reports that Emperor William has tol-eographed Cardinal Hartmann that, at the solicitation of the Pope, the sentence of death against the Countess de

Bellevalle, Mme. Thiel and Louis

Seyera had been commuted to imprisonment for life.

Brussels Under Martial Law

London, Nov. 12.—A message received here from Rouenend reports that travelers arriving there from Belgium say the German authorities have decided to place Brussels under martial law, thereby depriving the Belgian civil authorities of their control, says

the Exchange Telegraph's Amsterdam correspondent.

The correspondent adds that the reason for the measure is not known.

Swiss Not Fearing Invasion

Basel, Switzerland, Nov. 12.—A considerable portion of the Swiss army will be sent home from the frontiers

Nov. 17, as the Government apparently is convinced that no danger of territorial violations on a large scale by the belligerents now exists. The expense of maintaining upwards of 200,

000 men under arms has been a trying burden. The Government has been kept in a state of constant anxiety month after month by what was believed to be confidential trustworthy information concerning designs against Switzerland by one or another of the belligerents, all of which turned out to be inaccurate. However, ample forces will be retained at strategic points. These will be capable of delivering a hard blow while a general mobilization, if such should become necessary, is in progress.

The Swiss Government is making representations in certain belligerent countries against interference by centralized mail from Switzerland to neutral countries, and particularly to the United States. Mail addressed to the Swiss National Bank to its New York correspondent, and containing shares, bonds, checks, and coupons, is alleged to have been seized in transit.

This, the Swiss Government holds, constitutes a violation of the international postal treaty.

KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL

Health is Worth Saving, and Some Portsmouth People Know How to Save It.

Many Portsmouth people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Weak kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health—the slightest delay is dangerous. Use Don's Kidney Pills—a remedy that has helped thousands of kidney sufferers. Here is a Portsmouth citizen's recommendation.

Albert W. Dunlap, 17 School St., Portsmouth, says: "I suffered from kidney trouble for years and my back often became so sore and painful that I could scarcely get about. I had other symptoms which left no doubt in my mind that my kidneys were disordered. I finally resorted to Don's Kidney Pills at Philbrick's Pharmacy and through their use, every symptom of the trouble disappeared. I willingly confirm the endorsement I have previously given Don's Kidney Pills."

Please see, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Don's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Dunlap had. Foster-Millburn Co., Prop., Buffalo, N. Y.

A CHILD DOESN'T LAUGH AND PLAY IF CONSTIPATED

If peevish, feverish and sick, give "California Syrup of Figs."

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore; doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, diarrhea, remember, a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Syrup of Figs" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious "fruit laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside" cleansing. Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look and see that it is made by the "California Syrup Company."

BOSTON LETTER

BOSTON, NOV. 12.—

BOSTON, NOV. 12.—Speaker Channing Cox of the House of Representatives has opened his office at the state house and is framing up the committees for the opening session of the legislature. He has held a number of conferences with prominent Republican leaders. Most of the chairman of the house committees of last year are back again and will undoubtedly be appointed. Those who did not come back and their committees were—Hull of Great Barrington (elected to senate) who was chairman of ways and means; Morse of Manchester, chairman of com. on foreign affairs; Currier of Chelsea, legal affairs; Smith of Somerville, mercantile affairs; Bothfield of Newton, metropolitan affairs; Long of Topsfield, public service; Robinson of Chelsea, street railways; Felton of Greenfield, state house and libraries. For the important chairmanship of ways and means, the choice is said to lie between Representative Warner of Tumon, the ranking member, and Collins of Amesbury. Representative Greenwood of Everett, who was chairman of public institutions last year, is back again, but it is said to be in bad standing because he did not speak for Samuel McCall. In the senate all of the chairman will be back except Senators Doyle and Bigley. Bigley headed mercantile affairs, and Doyle, cities.

Twelve large rooms in the new east wing of the state house have been turned over to Daniel McKay and his corps of workers to the Metropolitan City Planning Exhibition which opened last night and is to continue until November 20. As arranged this will be the greatest exhibition of its kind ever shown in Boston or New England. It was opened by Governor Walsh together with the third annual conference of the Massachusetts City and Town Planning officials under the auspices of the Homestead Commission in the new large assembly hall in the basement of the east wing.

For the purpose of testing the validity of the law which requires Massachusetts automobile owners to pay a registration fee in excess of that which is necessary to defray the expense of registration, Attorney William A. Thibodeau, general consul of the automobile Legal Association has appealed from a fine imposed on him for operating an unregistered automobile. The supreme court has already decided that the law requiring the registration of automobiles is constitutional, but in 1904, when the decision was made, the registration fee was but $2 and the amount of the fee was not before the court for decision. The registration fee is now $10. The revenue derived by Massachusetts from the registration fees of automobiles amounts to approximately $1,000,000 annually.

Dancing in hotels and cafes where liquor is sold will not have the sanction of the police department. On Tuesday the licensing boards announced that police captains in their respective districts would act as censors regarding dancing in the above named places. In a general order issued to the department by Commissioner of Police O'Meara, the attention of the members of all grades was called to the fact that they shall not undertake to either grant or refuse permission for dancing on premises licensed to sell intoxicating liquors. They were further instructed that they cannot assume to regulate the forms of such dancing, by their continued presence on the premises or in any way cause the inference that dancing has the sanction of the police department.

PROBATE COURT—LOUIS G. HOYT JUDGE; ROBERT SCOTT, REGISTER

The following business was transacted at the probate court held in Exeter Tuesday:

Wife Proved—Of Lydia A. P. Woodward, Stratford, Samuel Hand, executor; Harry Hooper, Rye; Grace L. Hooper, executrix.

Administration Granted—in estate of Hanson Harrison, Portsmouth, John E. Harrison, administrator; Neille Pendergast, Portsmouth; Matthew Coyle, Exeter, administrator; Mary J. Woodbury, Salem, Frank P. Woodbury, administrator; Abigail Adams, New York, Lydia A. Adams, New York, City, administratrix, with John Ford, Exeter, agent to qualify; George W. Barnard, Plaistow; Pearl S. Sand-was made today by a government of high class to the Administration, in which he said that the plan for the raising of the $205,000,000 for the President's preparedness campaign program was well under way. He said that this plan would also provide for the wiping out of the Treasury deficit. The plan is as follows:

THE ELECTRIC PLANT STARTED

First Time for Seven Years—Renewed Activity at Freeman's Point

The electrical plant at the establishment of the New England Steel and Ordnance Company, at Freeman's Point, was started today for the first time in seven years, and it worked to perfection. A gang of electricians has been at work on the plant and everything was found in good condition considering the time it had been idle. The same is true of the boilers and other machinery.

Today there was renewed activity about the plant and everything is going along with a rush with the prospect of a gradual increase of the working force every day. Today several young men were taken on as messengers and others were employed about the grounds.

The contract for finishing up the middle section of the machine building of the old plant has been let to Burroughs of Boston and they will start work Monday to lay brick. As many of the local bricklayers as can be secured will be set to work.

In order to partially accommodate the workmen and others at the machine plant, arrangements have been perfected by which trains on the Dover branch will stop at the plant, if it warrants, the N. & M. will run special train service to and from the mill at certain hours of the day.

The citizens of this city should take hold and welcome the workmen and officials of the new industry. They should be made to feel at home and everything done to help them get settled.

The fair treatment by storekeepers and property owners accorded the summer people, which has won for Portsmouth such a fine reputation for fairness, will be given the new company, for Portsmouth wants them to feel at home and become a part of the city as soon as possible.

The motion picture of the German side of the war, taken by Edwin F. Woigle, staff photographer of the Chicago Tribune, and now being exhibited in New York, at the 44th street theatre will be shown for the first time in New England at this theatre four times daily for two days. Wonderful photoplay, showing scenes of exciting action, which will hold the attention of the audience throughout the entire five reels. As interesting and far more instructing than any vaudeville act.

ENGINEER MADE RUN FROM THIS CITY

Fred Waterman, for many years an engineer on the old Portland, St. Croix and Portsmouth railroad, who for the past 35 years has been an engineer on the Big Four, running out of Kansas City, is in Portland to pass the winter with relatives and is receiving cordial greetings from those of his old friends who are still living there. Mr. Waterman for many years was engineer of what was known as the Bear train, leaving Portland at 6 p.m., and returning at 10. He hauled General Sheridan from Portsmouth to Portland on his visit to Maine shortly after the war, making the run from Portsmouth to Portland, 51 miles in just 50 minutes. His fireman on that occasion was Orin Hollins, a brother of Alphonse Hollins, now a resident of Portland. Payson Tucker was conductor.

KITCHENER AT SALONICA

EMPEROR APPEALS FOR PEACE

(Special to The Herald)

Paris, Nov. 13.—Emperor William has appealed to Pope Benedict to try and restore peace in Europe, says a dispatch from the Italian paper Echo-Cologno. The paper prints the following: "Germany ardently desires peace and I learn from excellent authority that the Emperor has written to the Pope entreating him to intervene with the Allies to restore peace. The Holy Father responded that he was at the disposal of the Emperor and ready at all times to do what he could to bring about lasting peace. He, however, suggested that Germany evacuate Belgium before attempting to treat with the Allies." The paper goes on to state that an abstract from the Pope's letter will be read by Cardinal Mercier of Malines, Belgium, in the Belgian churches.

Here's everything in the way of apparel for boys' wear at study or play. Here's smart styled suits "backed up" by superior wearing value in fabrics; warm winter overcoats in all the classy models of the season. Then there's the mackinaw coats and the sweaters of which we show a very large and varied assortment. Sport caps and gloves to complete the outfit. Boys' Department, second floor.
